

Bournemouth

The people of Bournemouth have been extending a warm welcome to visitors for over one hundred and fifty years. The town lends itself well to a break at this time of year with plenty to occupy the visitor during the run up to Christmas. With its long, sandy beaches, mild climate and spectacular coastal views, the town has been popular since the mid-19th century. The town's entertainment is such that in a two week stay you could see a different show, play or concert for every night of your visit. With quality shopping, all that Bournemouth has to offer and the picturesque counties of Dorset, Hampshire and Wiltshire there is a combination that makes Bournemouth ideal for that Turkey and Tinsel break to remember.
